The Feeling Among Spaniards in Havana.

NEW YORK, Dec 9—The Tribune to-morrow will publish a letter from Havana dated Dec 4th in which it is stated that the popular opinion excited by Spanish advices from the United States at one time reached a fever heat but is now subsiding. On the streets among volunteers of the lower order of Spaniards there were threats of violence and at one time the mob actually concluded to destroy the Virginius but desisted therefrom by the action of officials. There is no question but that all Spaniards in the Island are averse to relinquishing the Virginius, and would not do it if they were not absolutely compelled thereto by those who prefer to surrender the vessel. There are threats of burning and scuttling her, and so serious have these been regarded that the guard on the Virginius which continues to be at the Navy Yard has been doubled and other extra precautions taken. Officers of the Navy keenly feel their humiliation in the return of the Virginius and it has been proclaimed in the newspapers that if the vessel is given up all the officers of the Tornado will resign all grades, honors and decorations and retire from the service, and that many officers of other war vessels will do the same.

CHICAGO, Dec 10—A Washington special says the President in a conversation to-day with a number of prominent gentlemen was at pains to express his entire confidence in a speedy settlement of the Virginius case in a manner which would be entirely satisfactory to our own people and highly honorable to both nations. The tenor of his remarks was that recent advices are such as to lead to the opinion he had expressed. He said finally, quite emphatically, as if to sum up: "Gentlemen, there will be no war."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—When on the 29th of November the protocol was signed by Secretary Fish and Admiral Polo the agreement was conclusive, and required no endorsement of the Governments of the United States and Spain, as a basis had been previously settled by them. Stipulation of time, manner and place for the surrender of the Virginius and surviving passengers and crew, etc, reserved in the protocol, was signed on Monday, while the men will be delivered to a United States vessel at Santiago de Cuba. The vessel will be delivered at some port other than Havana on Tuesday next.

On Monday the preliminary examination of George Morse, son of Sheriff Morse, on the charge of having set fire to McClure's Military Academy was held before Howard at Oakland. The testimony against him was given by former chums, who stated that before the fire he intimated to them that he intended to burn the building, and after the fire that he had set them in flames. For the defense it was shown that on the day of the fire Morse had been riding for hours on horseback through the streets of San Francisco. At half past 8 in the evening he was at the house of police officer McKay at the foot of Franklin street, and in less than half an hour after he left the fire broke out on the Academy premises, which is of two miles distant. Justice Howard thought the evidence sufficient to hold the defendant to answer. Bail was set at $3,000 and was immediately procured. The Grand Jury meets in January.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

CORVALLIS, Dec. 10—Mr H. K. W. Clarke, the distinguished lawyer of San Francisco, who so ably, exhaustively and successfully argued against the legality of the assessment by the State Board of Equalization, before Judge Mosher, at the late term of the Circuit Court, passed through Corvallis last evening en route home, and was serenaded. The people en masse, accompanied by the city brass band, turned out to bid him welcome. Felicitous brief speeches were made.

A CURIOSITY OF THE TICHBORNE TRIAL

34 BESSBOROUGH STREET, Nov. 1 1873.

To the Right Honorable the Lord Chancellor of England:—My Lord: Seeing the death of Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas recorded in the public press, and that the Attorney General is likely to be made his successor, and knowing Your Lordship's high character for justice, I feel sure Your Lordship will forgive me for drawing your attention to the Attorney General's conduct in the late trial at the Common Pleas and the language made use of by him about me, and also to the fact that he made use of forged letters for the purpose of defeating me at the last trial, knowing, as the evidence of M. Chabot and his own letter of July 21, 1873, published in the Times and other papers, proves, that he knew the letters were forgeries at the time he used them, or, in legal language, he uttered them, well knowing them to be forged. He has also had the same forgeries brought against me in the present trial, although he acknowledged them as forgeries in his speech, and, no doubt, they would have been used against me had not the Lord Chief Justice of England at once condemned them. The public, who have found me the money to defend myself, know all these facts as well as I do, and that this prosecution is only carried on for the purpose of crushing me and saving the reputation of the Attorney General.

I now ask you, my lord, not to appoint this person to be Chief Justice of the Court where I shall eventually obtain my just rights, and where, even if he did not try the case, he would influence his brethren to deny me justice in the same manner as his predecessor, Sir William Bovill, did. I beg to remain Your Lordship's obedient servant,

R C D TICHBORNE.

SELF SUCKING.—All sorts of cruel contraptions are resorted to in order to prevent cows from sucking themselves and calves from sucking their mas. Try the following and owe us one. Put a strap around the cow at the smallest girth; from each side let a line run to the adjacent horn. She can eat, she can drink, she can run, she can fight, but as a self sucker she is thenceforth an unsuccess.

Now for the calf. Have a small tin tube made, two inches longer than the distance across the calf's mouth at the corners, and let there be an opening at about the middle of the length of it, if you wish [illegible] solder a tin whistle to each end of the tube, put it in the calf's mouth like a bit and fasten with strings. When the calf tries to suck it commences by making a vacuum, and in the present situation of affairs every attempt gives vent to a loud and lamentable whistle, but [illegible] succeed in sucking.

WHY SORGHUM WAS ABANDONED.—A Western correspondent asks why Eastern farmers have so entirely given up the cultivation of sorghum for molasses? Simply because its production did not pay expenses. During the war, when molasses and sugar were at high prices, many of our farmers thought it was profitable to produce at least as much as was needed for the use of their own families. Manufacturers claim that they cannot afford to make it up for less than 25 cents per gallon, and when the cost of production is added to this the article cannot compete with a similar commodity made from the Southern cane.—Journal of the Farm.

A SINGULAR ACCIDENT.—A dispatch from Ottawa, Nov 26, says: Seven men, who were engaged at lumbering on Black River or Georgian Bay, have been found dead in their shanty. It appears they piled up a number of bags of oats, and made their beds beside them. The oats tumbled over, and they, being unable to extricate themselves, were smothered. Their remains were not discovered for some days.

LETTER FROM CORVALLIS

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

CORVALLIS, Dec 9 1873.

Since my last letter the snow that fell an average of four inches on Wednesday has continued till now, with a partial thaw on Sunday, followed by a keen frost every night since, and succeeded by frosty mornings and bright sunny days.

The farmers are busy killing hogs and curing bacon and hams; others are hauling the balance of their grain to the warehouses, and all are rejoicing in the profitable results of their year's labor.

THE LONG TOM DISTRICT.

Many are of the opinion that the farmers in the Long Tom valley are indolent, live poorly and are little better than half civilized. I have often heard the name of "Long Tomers" applied as a term of reproach. "Can any good thing come out of Long Tom?" My answer to all such is, "Come and see." They will find rich wheat lands, farms well fenced and cultivated, abundant crops, intelligent men, superior women, bright and beautiful children, comfortable dwelling houses well furnished, tables with all the comforts and luxuries desirable, and best of all, happy homes.

Such farmers as own the Irish Bend warehouse at Irish Bend, headed by Mr [illegible] Martin, and whose houses are made comfortable, elegant and happy by such women as Mrs. Martin, are samples of the industry, comfort and prosperity of the average farmers' families of the valley. While such families as Mr James Bruce's and Mr. Henry Clark's would compare favorably with those of high pretensions in city life, and not a tithe of the hospitality and generosity of the former.

THE WHEAT PRODUCTION OF LONG TOM.

After a careful examination of the wheat raised in the Long Tom district, there are stored in the nine warehouses, from Mr. Lemon's to Messrs. Whitaker & Aulbert's, 76,500 bushels. There are still in the hands of the farmers 12,000 bushels; in Mr Reader's mill, to be shipped in flour, 2,000 bushels; sent to Junction City for shipment by railroad 20,000 bushels—making in all 110,000 bushels.

There is none of this wheat sold but the 20,000 bushels sent to Junction. It could all be sold at a dollar a bushel, one fourth cash, and the balance on 30 days' time. But as the wheat cannot be shipped till the Willamette river rises, the farmers are disposed to hold until then, when they are confident wheat will command a dollar a bushel net cash. Negotiations are in progress for the purchase of several lots, but nothing definite has yet been reached. At present the whole of it could be bought for a dollar net cash, the buyers paying warehouse charges and the cost of sacks.

THE PRODUCTION OF WHEAT IN BENTON COUNTY.

There is stored in Corvallis, in the

	Bushels
Farmers warehouse	7,000
Hamilton Brothers' warehouse	6,000
Mr Avery's warehouse rented by Mr Hyland	30,000
Two Spring Hill warehouses	40,000
Long Tom warehouses etc	111,000
Shipped to Harrisburg and Albany	10,000
Making for shipment	231,000
There is reserved for home consumption and seed	50,000
Making in all for this county	[illegible]81,000

THE PRODUCTION OF THREE COUNTIES.

	Raised	Bill ship
Linn county	1,500,000	1,250,000
Lane	700,000	600,000
Total	[illegible]481,000	[illegible]181,000

Benton county has raised in addition 30,000 bushels of oats, 5,000 bushels of barley and 2,000 bushels of flaxseed. A large portion of the county is still used for stock raising. Mr Greenbury Smith has seven thousand acres in the county appropriated to raising stock. But this county, in common with Linn and Lane counties, will put in a third more grain this season than the last one.

A NEW ERA FOR THE FARMERS OF OREGON.

As the signs of the times indicate a continuation of good paying prices for wheat in the future, there is every reason to believe that the State has made a new start in the increased production of wheat, the prosperity of the farmers, the development of the resources of the country, and that principally from the united action of the farmers for the protection of their rights. The merchants have their chambers of commerce, brokers have their boards, tradesmen have their unions, other classes of men have their associations to assist each other and protect their rights, and, though last not least, the Granges are organized to unite the farmers in a bond of brotherhood, to assist each other and promote their interests in common. Hitherto the farmers of the State have been the victims to a considerable extent of sharp practices, but those days are numbered. Whoever aids in developing the resources of the State in fairly rewarding labor is a benefactor to his country and a friend of humanity. The prosperity of the country and the happiness of families is bound up in the industry of individuals justly treated and properly recorded.

SAW AND PLANING MILLS.

There are two of these mills in Corvallis. The upper one is owned by Hanna & McCune, the lower one by Robinson & Brothers; both are driven by steam power, and cut about 8,000 feet a day, although the capacity is much greater. They do not ship any lumber, but cut enough for the local wants of the district. There is plenty of good timber for such purposes.

CORVALLIS

Is located on the west bank of the Willamette river and is favorably situated for shipping during the winter and spring months. It has the advantage of the ocean breeze and is protected by the coast range of mountains. The foot hills of this mountain range add much to the beauty and variety of the scenery. It is the county seat and the principal town of the county. It is distinguished as the location of the Agricultural College, and is not surpassed by any town of the same population in any of the Eastern or Western States for the efficiency of its public and private schools. These are gradually attracting a steady and desirable population to the city. There are about 1,600 of a population, with the usual number of excellent stores and beautiful residences, two newspapers and a number of professional gentlemen of high standing.

SERENADE TO JUDGE CLARKE.

The leading men of Corvallis and the farmers of Benton county are jubilant over the defeat of the proceedings of the State Board of Equalization at the late sitting of the District Court here, presided over by Judge Mosher. Judge Clarke, one of the leading lawyers of San Francisco, was specially employed by the plaintiffs for the occasion. As he is to leave for his home in the morning, the people of Corvallis determined to give him a serenade prior to his departure, as a token of gratitude for the triumph he so ably assisted in securing, and admiration for his legal abilities. The brass band of the city kindly offered their services. At eight o'clock in the evening the citizens marched in procession, headed by the band, to the residence of Mr Sol King, where Judge Clarke was stopping. After the band played a number of appropriate airs the Judge made his appearance at the door, when Mr Robert Head, editor of the [illegible] Democrat, made a short and most appropriate address explanatory of the occasion of the complimentary serenade. Judge Clarke's response was brief, full of deep feeling, expressive of his appreciation of the compliment paid him, of the occasion, and of the politeness and kindness shown by the lawyers and people of the city during his short visit. He closed his address by paying a high compliment on the legal acquirements and great integrity of Judge Mosher, and the unanimity, zeal and energy with which the people fought and won their right in a legal and constitutional manner. Three hearty cheers were given for the band. Although this band has been organized only a few months the performance was admirable.

NORTHWEST.

THE IOWA TORNADO

STORIES OF SOME OF THE PARTICIPANTS.

[Washington (Ia.) Dispatch to the Chicago Times.]

The daughter Jennie, a beautiful girl of 16, was pleased to talk, since she found anything a relief which could in any measure divert her thoughts from repicturing the dread scene to herself. She was unable to move, her collar bone being fractured and her right eye closed by an ugly wound which barely missed the temple.

R.—How many scholars were present that day?

Miss Jennie—There were 17 and Miss Mary Smith, our teacher.

R.—Where were you at the time the house was struck?

J.—At the door trying to close it.

R.—Did you see it coming?

J.—Yes, sir. I was sitting at the window studying my algebra lesson, when there came a very sharp streak of lightning and a gust of wind. I was frightened a little and left the window, putting it down. Another gust came, still stronger, and springing toward the door, I tried to push it shut. The teacher ran to help me. We both had hold of the door when I felt the building begin to sway, as easy as the rocking of a cradle. I was perfectly conscious, and it was a delightful feeling. Then I was thrown down and knew I was being rolled over and over. Did not think I was being hurt.

R.—Did you see any of the others?

J.—No, sir; I could not see anything—only felt. When I got up I thought the first thing to run home.

R.—How far was that?

J.—Only a little ways—a quarter of a mile, I guess. When I got there I found all gone, and mamma there. Jennie's eyes filled with tears at the thought of her home, now hers no more. Soon recovering from her emotions she continued: Then I thought I would go to Mr Marburg's and came here.

R.—Did it hurt you to walk?

J.—Yes, sir; I could feel the bone above my shoulder grating every step. I was tired out when I got there, where I was taken care of. They are so good to me.

R.—Did you see your brother during this time?

J.—I knew he was near me when I rolled over, and then lost track of him. Here Jennie held up a doll, and said with a smile: "This is all I have left of my house. Dolly got up in her chair and was never injured, but."

Jacob and Edward Brown, brothers and farmers, had a sufficiently narrow escape to suit them. They were driven along on horseback about four miles southwest of Harper. The following is the

as told by Jacob to the Times reporter:

Reporter—Will you tell me how you managed to keep your wind unbroken and so much of it outside?

Brown—Certainly, sir. You see Brother Ed and I were driving along leisurely, as it was sort o' sultry like, and once in a while would remark on the mighty loud noise [illegible] us. We kept our eyes out for the heavens, expecting a right sharp rain spell.

R.—Was the wind blowing?

B.—Scarcely at all. Then by and by I saw three huge masses of cloud drifting around near each other as if playing. While I watched the curious way they moved, suddenly they ran into each other like melting into one, and that was the last I stopped to see.

R.—How was it that you stopped seeing?

B.—Well, there was a mighty big shock, as if an earthquake had struck close to us, and then a gust came tearing along.

R.—Did you see it coming toward you?

B.—Yes, a little. We were directly in the way of it, and it didn't seem a good place to be in at all. So I dropped from my horse.

R.—Did you let him go?

B.—You may bet. I didn't look after anybody but Jake Brown just then, and jumped into the ditch over beyond the fence about as lively as I could. Brother did likewise. Then we clung to the posts as we saw it right on to us.

R.—Can you tell how it appeared at that time?

B.—Couldn't find it timely to look much. Was too busy clinging to my post. Besides, the thing was on me in half a minute. When it got to us it was black as night. Away went the fence boards, falling all around us. They helped us out some. I was wrenched around so that I thought my arms would come from their sockets, but stuck on for keeps. It was life or death to me.

R.—How long did this last?

B.—Only two or three minutes. Then how the rain swept us for a few more!

R.—Could you see it after it passed you?

B.—Plain as life. There was a sort of mist seemed to follow it up, but we saw it strike east and thought it was all up with the folks down there.

It seems that the horses were caught and carried some distance, but not much hurt. The saddle was stripped from one of them, and Mr. Brown is looking for it yet.

ENGLISH RITUALISM

A high celebration at St Paul, Walworth, London, England, is thus described in the Pall Mall Gazette:

The chancel was of course the center of attraction, and the ledges above the altar were literally covered with vases of flowers and candles, although the six high candles were not lighted. The stalls between the body of the church and the choir, occupied during the service by the clergy, who sat with their backs to the congregation, were laden with decorations of fruit and flowers—grapes and hothouse grapes, apples, pears, plums, melons and dahlias hanging in rich profusion, while on either side of the arch rested the banners, which in their places some six or ten feet high, formed a prominent feature in the processions. The rood screen [illegible] with a large figure of the crucified Saviour was lighted by two chandeliers, a single candle being placed on either side of the base of the crucifix. The side altars too were freely decorated with flowers and candles, while before each of them, as before the high altar, a lighted lamp was suspended. The church was thronged in every part, the galleries which still remain on either side being densely packed, while in the aisles people were standing, and many more were unable to obtain admission. After the sermon, during the collection of alms, the procession of clergy and choristers, headed by the cross bearer, and two attendants in scarlet cassocks and short surplices, walked down the center and up both aisles of the church, afterwards returning to the chancel, where the vicar pronounced the benediction from the altar steps. The congregation consisted almost in equal proportions of men, women and children, chiefly of the lower middle classes.

AFTER SEDAN.—Dr. Russell, in his recently published Diary, describes the scenes through which he passed in the Franco-German war.

The day after Sedan he rode over the battle-field, the grisly horrors of which passed all belief. Human hands hanging in the trees; a dead lancer gazing curiously at the head of a Zouave which lay in his lap, clean blown off; a wretch with the Geneva badge on his arm, stooping, [illegible] under the weight of [illegible] watches and gold [illegible]—these were some of the loathsome sights. Perhaps none of them were so sad as that of the body of a French peasant, seen one lovely morning as the Crown Prince, on his way to Paris, led his staff out of Montmirail through a beautiful country. This poor victim of war, dressed in a blouse, was lying off the road inside a gap. He had been shot through the heart and had fallen face forward. There would have been nothing to account for his death but that an old musket broken in two lay near him, and that the band of his cap had a number, and that a string of red cloth gave it some semblance of uniform.

THE PALACE HOTEL

AN IMMENSE ESTABLISHMENT TO BE BUILT ON MARKET STREET.

San Francisco is to have a new hotel, and one which will combine all the advantages of the Eastern and European houses. In the plans are said to be utilized all the good points of the best Eastern and European hotels. Warren Leland, the veteran of New York hosts, has been engaged to superintend details of the building and carry on the house when finished, and it really looks now as though this city would have the finest hotel in the world. The Palace Hotel is to be built on the land bounded by New Montgomery, Market, Jessie and Annie streets, and will cover a space of 92,200 feet, more ground than is occupied by any hotel in the East. On New Montgomery street the frontage will be 344 feet, on Market street 275 feet, on Annie street 304 feet, and on Jessie street 22[illegible] feet. The cost of this immense structure is now fixed at $850,000. On the first floor will be the main entrance, 40 feet wide and 25 feet high. This will lead from New Montgomery street to a carriage court 152 by 84 feet, which is to be covered with glass and surrounded by arcaded galleries, one to each floor of the hotel. The building will be six stories high, and water will be supplied by two artesian wells. It is intended to make provision for twelve hundred guests, and all the rooms are to be lighted directly from the open air. The gas and ice used in the hotel will be manufactured on the premises. Work will begin on the new structure at once.—S F Chronicle Dec 4.

THE CHIEF JUSTICESHIP.

WASHINGTON, Dec 4—The nomination of George H Williams as Chief Justice was to-day referred to the Committee on Judiciary, but no further action was taken on the subject in Executive session. It is stated that the President tendered the appointment to Senator Conkling, who declined. He then wished to appoint Caleb Cushing, and retain Attorney General Williams in the Cabinet until near the end of his Presidential term, calculating that by that time Cushing would retire by reason of age, and in that event he would appoint Williams. The proposed appointment of Cushing was not considered expedient by the Cabinet, and the President then appointed Williams.

THURSDAY MORNING DEC 11 1873

THE CASE JUST AS IT IS

The ring organ feels called upon to defend the infamy of the removal of an officer of the Government because he discharged his duties faithfully. It gives the dispatch of Attorney General Williams to ex Governor Gibbs, the District Attorney which we published on Monday morning, and rests the case on that document, withholding the dispatch sent by Mr Gibbs in response to that of the Attorney General. The latter dispatch contained the whole of the case in a nut shell, and was sent in pursuance of the direction of the Attorney General that Mr Gibbs report the facts in the premises, before proceeding further Mr Gibbs did only his duty he obeyed the order of his superior and his upright and honest course caused him to be removed from his office That what he said about the bribery and corruption carried on at the late Congressional election is true, is as notorious in this community as that such an election was held And the finding of indictments against the parties charged is proof positive that the course pursued by Mr Gibbs was the course required by the nature of the case And we are informed the Grand Jury have tendered to Mr Gibbs a testimonial signed by every member, stating that his report of the bribery and corruption is true

Now it is not pretended by anybody that this Grand Jury was not composed of as good, honorable and conscientious men as can be found within the State of Oregon, or within the United States. Neither does any person pretend that the bribery and corruption charged did not exist. And for presenting the scoundrels to the Grand Jury, and for nothing else under the sun, Mr Gibbs must be decapitated This faithful and conscientious officer has been kicked out of office for discharging a plain, imperative and most important duty This is the long and short of the matter, and the case is one that may well excite alarm as well as indignation No more infamous infringement of the rights of the Judicial Department nor one that touches a more vital point in the civil polity of this country, has been committed since the foundation of the Government. We care not from what source this outrage sprang, nor by whom instigated or executed, it deserves the unqualified condemnation of the entire country, as it unquestionably receives that of Oregon

It may be that the Attorney-General or Chief Justice, which ever he is at this time, can explain the matter consistently with his own innocence If he can, it certainly behooves him to do so, for unless he does, no matter how exalted a position he may reach, he can never again hope to enjoy the esteem of an intelligent public This act will prove a stain on his character which all the distinguished services of his past life, and all he may render hereafter, will never be sufficient to wash out or hide from view

Toledo boasts a gay Lothario of the softer sex [illegible] within the short space of [illegible] each of whom she has hoppled with a rapidity quite bewildering Her numerous name is given by the Commercial, Mrs. Hollister alias Mrs Doran, alias Mrs. Ward, alias Mrs Parmaster The three latter husbands have been living within a stone's throw of each other for seven weeks, and it was only ten or twelve days ago that Doran awoke from the transitory scene in which he had been playing a lugubrious third fiddle But when Doran did wake up he was incandescent. [illegible] accounts for Mrs. Hollister-Doran Ward-Parmaster's occupancy of the county jail, and [illegible] oblivion, which doubtless she illustrates by sterning with all the facial development of a Government mule that she never saw Doran nor Ward If this remarkable faculty for accumulating husbands increase in [illegible] arithmetical progression, who shall say but that when the full-orbed millennium of universal suffrage bursts into us, this Mrs What-is-her-name will turn up in the United States Senate? The world will watch impatiently for some startling denouement such as this

For first-class recommendations of character, endorsements of doubtful reputations and the like done with neatness and dispatch,' the Washington Chronicle is most to be commended In its latest effusion it adorns the uncertain hue of Senator Crozier's character with a raiment of dazzling whitewash Of course, we know nothing of Crozier beyond the reputation given him by his own people The country press of any State is ordinarily a reliable index of the controlling public opinion In this case of the Kansas Senatorship our readers will remember the outburst of indignation which accompanied the news of his appointment by Governor Osborn One dispatch stated that every Republican journal in Kansas denounced this appointment as the result of corrupt bargaining between the Governor and the appointee. Crozier is best (or worst) known as the intimate friend and confidant of Caldwell He appeared before an investigating committee of the last Congress as counsel for the perturbed Senator Poor Kansas is in a horrible fix

The Cincinnati Gazette whose brave words we have quoted from time to time, is surely falling from grace Now it commends the pithy warning of the New York Times—that unless the Republican party tacks square about, its epitaph will be written within a year' and adds

The thing for Republican Congressmen to do for popularity is to repeal the salary bill The people have pronounced on this and Congress upon such instruction can honorably retreat The majority should be united and prompt in this matter There need be no difficulty as to the President's salary for the provision of the bill which raises that is [illegible] so far as it refers to the present term Neither Cuban filibusterism, war with Spain, schemes to inflate the currency, nor any India rubber currency plan can be made to throw dust in the eyes of the people so as to quiet the demand for repealing the salary bill

From the greedy haste with which some eighteen Congressmen sprang to test the recipe for regaining lost popularity one would argue a state of penitence in the average Congressman, which is quite as gratifying as it is unusual.

Grown desperate by their defeat in the attempt to force the people of Oregon to indorse the infamous character of John Hipple alias J H. Mitchell, U S Senator from Oregon and by the discovery of the wholesale bribery and corruption by which that result was sought to be accomplished the ring has resorted at last to the only line of intrenchments left namely the despotic interference with the usual course of justice by authority from the General Government In this they will of course succeed so long as the leaders of the ring occupy high positions at Washington and have the ear of the Administration. But there is coming a time and that right speedily when the people will have something to say in these matters and then these political knaves who now ride rough shod over the rights of the people will find themselves too dead to be roused by the trumpet of any political Gabriel The grave of the ring is dug, and they may just as well make up their minds to be laid away in it at the next election

Our morning dispatches state that Delehay the notorious United States District Judge of Kansas has resigned This is very discreet in Delehay It will be remembered that a Committee on the part of the House of Representatives appeared at the bar of the Senate on the last day of the session and impeached Delehay On the same day the Senate notified the House that it was ready to receive and hear articles of impeachment whenever presented Proceedings in the matter would have been in order immediately upon the organization of the Forty Third Congress The besotted culprit has evaded the disgrace of an impeachment by tendering his resignation at the last moment Thus, within a month the national judiciary is rid of two unworthy officers—Sherman, of Ohio and Delehay, of Kansas

From the statements of the press of California we infer that the finances of that State are not in the most satisfactory condition The report of the Comptroller of the Treasury, for the last fiscal year, shows that the rate of taxation amounts to the enormous sum of $18 75 for every man, woman and child in the State This exhibit is very suggestive of wasteful expenditure and jobbery We notice in the Sacramento correspondence of the S F Bulletin a statement to the effect that the sum of $390,000 was spent in ornamenting the Capitol grounds during the summer of 1873 We suppose we shall have to stand it if the people of California can but one thing is morally certain—no people can long endure such a strain on their purse strings

The Pittsburg printers strike which ended so disastrously to the compositors, has not been without its beneficial results in other parts of the country It brought about a dissolution of the Pittsburg Typographical Union while in Chicago the compositors are actually disposed to consent to a reduction of wages without revolt. They have just repealed the rule requiring double pay for work done on holiday and now they are considering a proposition from their employers to cut down the price of composition from 55 to 50 cents per thousand ems on morning papers and from 50 to 45 cents on evening and weekly papers

The Attorney-General of Illinois has brought suit against the Chicago and North western Railway Company to recover damages amounting to $100 000, for alleged violations of the Illinois Railroad law prohibiting unjust discriminations in fare and freight tariffs etc In the decision of the suit the constitutionality of the law is involved The various railway companies in the State are interesting themselves greatly in procuring a decision adverse to the State.

The Centennial Exposition may be said to be fairly started On the 20th of November workmen began on the site in Fairmount Park to make sundry excavations The first [illegible] used in [illegible] walls from which It is alleged by a prominent and influential Eastern journal that these proceedings were watched with unusual interest

Here is a sample of sundry ribald paragraphs which are going the rounds of the Eastern press just now 'Hipple-Mitchell is revisiting on his way to Washington the scenes of his more youthful years The Beaver county Press says that no trifles will keep him in the background It seems so" And this is fame!

The Massachusetts prohibitionists are thoroughly in earnest, whatever may be thought of their discretion At a recent session of the Massachusetts State Temperance Alliance Martin Green, a prominent member, was expelled for publishing liquor dealers advertisements in a paper which he is said to control

Some of the New York papers are astonished that even in India an Englishman, Mr R G Melville of the East Indian Service should become a Mohammedan and marry a native girl although he has already a Christian wife Humph!

The New York Tribune of Nov 27th mentions the death of Col Oliver Lly the oldest survivor of the first settlers in Binghampton, N Y

REV G. HINES

In Wednesday's Statesman we find the following notice of the Rev Gustavus Hines who died at his residence in Salem on the 9th inst after a lingering illness of two years

He was born in Wyoming county, N Y A D 1809 He came to Oregon a missionary in 1839 when this country was a wilderness and jointly occupied by the English and the U S Government. He remained here a faithful missionary until 1845 when he returned with his family to his home in New York, by the way of China making a voyage around the world He removed to the western part of New York for eight years doing the work of a Methodist itinerant minister In 1853 he came back to Oregon with his family making the tour across the plains He arrived here in the autumn of 1853 where he has since remained in the active work of the ministry until a little more than two years ago while stationed at Oregon City he was attacked with a disease of the lungs which placed him on the superannuated list and of which he died in great peace December 9th inst Mr Hines had the confidence and esteem of all who knew him and especially those who knew him best He had a reputation without reproach, and received the highest endowment of his own church by which he was delegated to the General Conference in 1868 He was a prudent man safe counselor a good preacher and a most excellent citizen He has left his impress on the institutions of the Pacific coast

ORPHAN'S HOME

The Board of Managers for the Orphan's Home at Salem report that institution in a prosperous condition

There are at present seven homeless children at the Home under the kind and efficient care of Mrs Converse the Matron who has consented to retain the position another year Among improvements made recently the most important are the purchase of a new stove which was greatly needed and the laying of a new floor and otherwise renovating the children's sleeping apartment

Within the past month three applications have been made for children by persons wishing to adopt them The number of inmates of the Home varies from seven to twelve

The following is a list of supplies procured by Mrs J L Strong as donations to the Home for the month of November for Thanksgiving spices raisins currants oysters and cake from different grocers meat from Mr F Bewley fish from Mrs A W Kinney and cloth for the boys clothing from Mr Jos Hoyt to the amount of $6

The expenses for the Home for the past month as reported by the Household Committee are $164 25 which includes payment to the stove and Matron's salary

Subject— HAMLET

The character of Hamlet has always been considered as the most remarkable and inexplicable of the creations of Shakspeare's genius. Many theories have been advanced to explain the Ghost, Hamlet's insanity, and his love for Ophelia. Dr. Marsh proposes to reconcile and elucidate these points in a purely original way, derived from many years study of the play

To all lovers of Shakspeare and literature a rare treat will be offered as Dr Marsh is well known as a ripe scholar and a man of solid and varied acquirements.

S[illegible] AND GLASS.—Since Schultz has been placed in the Penitentiary for the second time he appears to take things free and easy. Superintendent Watkinds says he seems to be in a cheerful pleasant condition of mind and works with energy. He is at present engaged in [illegible] earth for brick of which the State C[illegible] is to be erected. Although in a good [illegible] he will bear watching. Schultz [illegible] to allow an opportunity for escape to go unimproved. Mr Watkinds understands that matter pretty thoroughly and will not afford him much of a chance to give the [illegible] slip. Vigilant surveillance over his movement is never relaxed for a [illegible] the probabilities are quite strong that S[illegible] will serve out the full term of his confinement should he live that long. Dr Gl[illegible] was removed to the Penitentiary [illegible] appears very gloomy and despondent. The terrible blow has completely crushed him. His health at present is quite poor so that he is not able to be out. In consideration of his bad health Mr Watkinds has assigned him a light billet in the kitchen.

SCHOOL BOOKS.—The Board of Directors of our city schools met yesterday afternoon and adopted a resolution in regard to the school books to be used in the public schools which we publish elsewhere. The arithmetics are excepted from the resolution subject to any action that may be had as to them at any future time. The series of mathematics adopted by the State Board is already in use to a certain extent. The books required to be put into the schools can be procured of the publishers agent here at introductory rates that is, two thirds their retail value and while those rates are continued parents should see that their children are supplied with all books they may need. The action of the publishers in putting the books on sale at reduced rates will greatly lessen the cost of making the change. New classes will probably be formed directly after the holidays and as many changes should be made at that time as possible inasmuch as all changes must be made before the 1st of March.

NEARLY A FIRE.—A very narrow escape from a destructive conflagration occurred at the residence of Mr Walling, near Oswego, on Tuesday evening. Hon Levi Leland delivered a lecture at Mr Walling's house on that evening. After all had retired for the night and deep sleep fallen on the members of the household a gentleman who had occasion to pass by the house observed the roof on fire where the chimney passes through. Without giving the alarm the gentleman mounted the roof and extinguished the fire with snow. Had the discovery not been made when it was the dwelling would inevitably have been destroyed, and a number of adjoining buildings. Fortunately no damage was sustained.

A HANDSOME PAINTING.—An elegant oil painting from the brush of Mr J. H Garrigan of East Portland, can be seen at the show window of Geo A Steele & Co. The subject is a representation of a portion of Yosemite Valley. And most faithfully and superbly has the artist performed his labors. The view is grand and magnificent, and proves beyond dispute the artistic conception of the painter and the skill and taste with which he has plied the brush. Recently Mr Garrigan returned from a tour through the interior of California. While traveling he visited numerous places of note and made a great many sketches of scenery. These sketches he will transfer to canvas at his leisure.

VACANCY FILLED.—The County Court on yesterday appointed Alderman E F Russell a Justice of the Peace for North Portland Precinct, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of the late Alex Dodge Esq. Should Mr Russell, accept and quality, we doubt not he will hold the scales with an impartial hand and give litigants the clean law when their cases are submitted to him. He is abundantly qualified to discharge the duties of the position and will be very apt to make a popular officer. Mr P[illegible], the constable of the precinct, we believe has gone to California, and the vacancy occasioned by his absence is as yet unfilled.

SUDDEN ILLNESS.—We are pained to announce that our highly esteemed fellow townsman Dr. W H Watkins is at present closely confined to his room from a severe attack of nervous prostration. He was suddenly attacked on Tuesday while in his office, and had to be removed home. Last evening we were truly gratified to learn that he is rapidly recovering although still very weak. His numerous friends in this city and elsewhere will sincerely regret to hear of his illness, but will rejoice to learn of his rapid convalescence.

"HAMLET."—Shakspeare's mysterious, and in many regards, wonderful character of 'Hamlet' will constitute the subject of Prof Marsh's lecture at the Congregational Church next Wednesday evening. Mr Marsh has given that character very close study and much thought for a number of years. He is a gentleman of fine abilities, a ripe scholar and a pleasant speaker. There can be no doubt but what his lecture will be one of the most interesting of any preceding or succeeding lecture of the course.

GOOD SKATING.—Giles' lake is now one of the most popular places of resort for skaters. Splendid skating, it is said, is afforded at that place, and although the distance is considerable, yet the fine sheet of ice which can be found more than compensates for the long walk. Both by night and day large numbers visit the lake and spend hours in skimming about over the glass like surface.

OPERATIONS CLOSED.—Work along the channel of the Willamette at Postoffice bar has been suspended for the reason that nothing more can be done at that point for the present. Should the condition of the river allow the new dredger will proceed down to St. Helens bar and commence work there.

TREASURE.—For the month just past there has been shipped from Wells Fargo & Co's in this city the following amount of treasure. Currency $[illegible] gold coin $136 927; gold [illegible] silver coin $15 600.

MR GILBERT'S LECTURE

The second lecture of the course was delivered last evening at the Congregational Church on the subject of "Life in Venezuela" by Wm B Gilbert Esq. A large and cultivated audience was present. The eighth article lecture was replete with valuable information and listened to with intense interest. Its delivery required about one hour and a quarter but there was no signs of weariness. Our limited space will permit only a brief synopsis.

In the summer of 1867 Williams College sent an exploring expedition to South America. The northern division of the expedition went to the west coast of Ecuador and crossed the continent under the equator. The northern division consisting of three students proceeded to the coast of Venezuela and spent some two months hunting, fishing and exploring on the table lands surrounding Caracas and Valencia. Caracas is a neat, white city of adobe walls and well paved streets shut in by its mountain walls no more than by its customs and civilization. It is one of the oldest cities of the western hemisphere. Its inhabitants are a mongrel race comprising every possible admixture of Spanish Indian and negro blood. The climate is mild and genial and the people live largely out of doors. The streets present a lively appearance the absence of carriages hacks and drays is supplied by innumerable donkeys. These donkeys bear all manner of burdens from planks and bar iron to loads of hay. They have admission to all places. Men ride into dry goods stores horseback and donkeyback rather than go to the trouble of dismounting. Caracas is a field for naturalists. Humming birds cover the flowers of the plazas. One can find the scorpion in his own bed room and shake the centipede out of his boots when he puts them on in the morning. The ruins of the earthquake of 181_ are still visible but overgrown with cactus and parasitic vines.

The lecturer gave a resume of Humboldt's graphic account of that famous earthquake.

The amusements of Caracas are not numerous. They are confined to the first day in the week. The Church service is held early in the morning lest it interfere with the bull fight at midday and the theater at night. The bull fight has lost it Castilian nerceness. A melee of men and dogs fairly frightens the poor bull into another world and his carcass goes to the butcher. The celebration of the feast days brings all Caracas out of doors at night the streets are illuminated, the Church towers lighted up with myriads of candles torchlight processions of monks and nuns move solemnly to and fro bands play, bells ring the military ride about on prancing horses, Spanish beauties throng the streets and flirt with their fans and eyes. The three students attracted a good deal of attention at Caracas. The people never fully understood what they came for. They were stared at to their heart's content. As they went through the streets troops of small boys would follow them—just as they are wont to follow in the wake of a traveling circus.

Two weeks were spent in exploring the regions around Caracas and then they went to Valencia ninety miles southward.

The system of cookery in Venezuela struck them as being peculiar. They took a tender interest in the food that was placed before them. They had no cause to complain at Caracas but as they went further they had occasion to object strongly to the prevalence of garlic. They bribed cooks to omit the garlic they watched the process but all to no purpose, no Venezuelan cook had ever omitted the garlic, and this was no time to dishonor the memory of their ancestors, garlic went into everything—into beefsteaks into soups into rice into pies—the very cooking utensils were saturated with it.

The home life of the people, away from the cities, is simple and uneventful. Their houses are rude structures of mud walls and thatched roofs. The women attend to the farming. Indian corn grows all the year round. Bananas sugar-cane cassava and coffee supply the necessaries of life. No fences disfigure the landscape.

There are several ways of traveling about the country. The best way is to ride a donkey. The most timid rider feels safe when mounted on a donkey he knows if his beast throws him he has not far to fall and as to running away, the donkey is constitutionally opposed to it. He is a good traveler, he is sure-footed in the mountains, he will crawl over knife-edged bridges, where his rider on foot would hardly dare attempt to go.

Venezuela is a land of revolutions. If revolutions are a blessing, the country is perpetually blessed—they come as often as the changes of the moon. What other nations are content to do by the ordinary means of progress Venezuela does by a revolution. They comply with the bad conditions which are said to justify revolution. 1st, there is a reasonable prospect of success, 2d the evils of the existing administration are unendurable. Administrations are short lived. Each President when he takes his seat steals all he can from the State, borrows all he can from his friends and goes over to San Thomas or some other island and forgets to return. San Thomas is the Mecca of Venezuelan Presidents. They all expect to make a pilgrimage there before they die. When a President is gone, some General buys up the army and makes himself President. These revolutions are generally effected without bloodshed. Service in the Venezuelan army is a remarkably healthy business.

The three explorers made many excursions in the vicinity of Valencia. They hunted the jaguar in the mountains. They encamped upon the shore of the beautiful lake Valencia. After they had been in the country two months they made preparations to cross the continent by way of the rivers Apure the Orinoco, the Cassiquiare, the Negro and the Amazon—a journey of 3 000 miles which had never before been accomplished.

They embarked on a tributary of the Apure and were afloat in the forest. The lecturer then described the profuse vegetation of the South American forests. The palms the bamboos the fern trees, the mimosa the parasitic vines and the brilliant flowers that cap the summit of the trees and load the air with their perfume. They found monkeys in great abundance. Parrots, macaws waterfowl and alligators were to be seen everywhere. The mosquito never forsook them. They saw the anaconda once only. The carribee fish inhabits some of those rivers. He is more of a terror to the traveler by water than the jaguar or the alligator. The Indians employ this carribee in doing the honors of their dead—they leave their deceased relative in the river until the carribee clears the flesh from his bones and then preserve the skeleton. The traveler is exposed to malaria on the rivers. A member of the Southern division was buried in the Andes. The lecturer was taken with the fever and returned to their starting place.

The lecturer made some concluding remarks concerning the cause of the failure of Spanish American Republicanism—which we regret our inability to give in full. He contrasted the settlement of North America with the conquest of South America. The South gave more promise of wealth and importance than the North but while the Saxon has been aggressive and overcome obstacles the Spaniard has succumbed to nature and his blood mingles with the dusky current of other races.

COMMON COUNCIL

REGULAR MEETING DECEMBER 10 1873

The Common Council of the city of Portland met pursuant to ordinance. His Honor Mayor H Failing in the chair. W S Caldwell Clerk. Capt J H Wiley in attendance.

Members present—Besser, Burton Cawood Hoyt Moreland Lyon Russell and Story.

Absent—Hill.

Minutes of the last meeting read and approved.

REPORTS

A report was read from the Committee on Accounts and Current Expenses, which stated that the contract for city printing for one year had been awarded the OREGONIAN Publishing Company they being the lowest responsible bidder. The report was placed on file.

A report was read from the Committee on Streets and Public Property which stated that the Stark street sewer was completed according to the conditions of the contract. The committee recommended that a warrant for $3400 be drawn in favor of the contractor J J Larler. The report was adopted.

From the Judiciary Committee which stated that they had recommended an appeal to be taken to the Supreme Court in the case of "City of Portland vs O N Denny."

After some discussion, the subject matter was re referred to the same Committee.

Councilman Moreland of the Committee on River Improvements, to whom had been referred the sale of the old city dredger asked for further time in which to consummate negotiations. The request was granted.

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

The Special Committee to whom had been referred the charges of dereliction in office preferred against the City Attorney, M. F Mulkey, submitted the following report:

PORTLAND, Dec 10 1873

To the Hon Mayor and Common Council of the City of Portland—Gentlemen—Your special committee to whom was recommitted former report would further report that Sec 62 of the Charter says, that the City Attorney must attend to all actions suits or proceedings in which the city is legally interested and attend to the prosecution of all persons charged with the violation of a city ordinance etc etc. Sec 1 Ordinance 1082 recites in nearly the same language the duties of same officer but it does not appear clear to your committee that the City Attorney must appear in person in all the Courts to attend to these matters as there might be occasion when it would be impossible for any one City Attorney to do so, as for instance the city might be legally interested in matters pending before different Courts at one and the same time. Your committee believe that there is nothing in either the charter or the ordinance referred to that could be so construed that would in cases of exigencies deprive the City Attorney of having a representative in the Police Court. He (the said City Attorney) being responsible for any dereliction of duty on the part of any such representative.

That so long as he attends to the duties of his office, whether in person or by a representative it is fulfilling the requirements of the law. This proposition however, your committee are aware will admit of qualification. The City Attorney is elected by your honorable body to attend to specific duties and when possible your committee believe he should do so in person but it does not follow that the city would be the loser in case of an appointee of the City Attorney attending to the duties of his superior (in office), as it might happen, if the city had an incompetent attorney, one of more diligence and ability might be the appointee.

From the evidence taken by your committee it is evident that it has been the custom of various City Attorneys to be represented in the Police Court in case of sickness, absence from the city or said attorney being unavoidably detained in representing the city where the city has been legally interested in the proceedings of other courts but your committee believing that this custom may in some instances be abused would suggest to your honorable body the passage of some restraining ordinance placing limit of absence from Police Court other restrictions, etc, etc.

In the matter of the complaint of John C Work Esq, of dereliction of duty on the part of City Attorney M F Mulkey, Esq your committee would report that the city business in the Police Court between October 12th and November 13th has been attended to by Robert E Bybee Esq, as well as though the City Attorney had attended the said court in person during the entire time that Mr Bybee did so under contract with the City Attorney—contract to last while the Hon Circuit Court was in session. That it does not appear from the evidence that the cases in the Hon Circuit Court in which the city was legally interested between October 12th and November 13th were sufficient in number, or of a nature to necessitate the almost entire absence of the City Attorney from the Police Court during that time. That he was absent from Police Court most of the time there is no doubt but it was not city business that required his long continued absence from said court.

Special Committee on Investigation

After considerable discussion the report was placed on file.

The special committee to whom was referred the petition of George H Clarke in relation to the condition of the streets at the intersection of Columbia and Fourth submitted their report. The committee reported that they found the streets at that point in a bad condition—dangerous to travel. After carefully examining the premises the committee recommended that the Railroad Company be required to repair that portion of Fourth street which is necessary that the city be required to repair Columbia street where the earth under the plank roadway is washed out. Considerable discussion followed when the report was finally adopted and the committee instructed to report by ordinance at the next meeting of the Council, the ordinance to conform to the above recommendations.

REPORT OF THE CHIEF ENGINEER

The Chief Engineer submitted the following report which was read and placed on file:

To the Hon Mayor and Common Council of the City of Portland—Gentlemen—The OREGONIAN in its issue of last Saturday morning in a leading article charges me with willful neglect of duty in allowing the fire hydrants to freeze up and burst thereby causing an extravagant waste of water rendering city property worthless creating unnecessary expense to the city [illegible] private dwelling houses endangering city and private property in case of fire [illegible] I do not [illegible] the charge of willfully doing me [illegible] injustice in making these charges but consider that it should the [illegible] investigate the matter before accepting the representations or rather misrepresentations of [illegible] furnished to me as fact. The series of charges contained in said article are wholly without foundation except in one particular—the bursting of the hydrant at the corner of [illegible] and Sixth streets. Whether said hydrant was burst by freezing up or through some other agency I am at present unable to ascertain. The remaining hydrants I have [illegible] examined and find them in good condition and [illegible] frozen up notwithstanding the OREGONIAN'S [illegible] I could have taken all [illegible] precaution [illegible] that they may [illegible] from freezing [illegible] expense of [illegible] very liberally supplied [illegible] the requirements of the Fire Department during [illegible] year and any numerous [illegible]

At the suggestion of the OREGONIAN [illegible] the hydrant [illegible] should the Water Company [illegible] fail [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] when the city shall have gained something by the OREGONIAN'S suggestion.

Since my installation [illegible] Chief Engineer I have endeavored to faithfully discharge the duties entrusted to my care—having in view strict economy and the best interests of the city and I will [illegible] in my power to have the apparatus under my control at all times in good condition and ready for service in case of emergency, and the motive for such wholesale misrepresentation of facts as in this case is to me unaccountable, unless it is for the purpose of enforcing the extreme measures referred to in said article.

I am gentlemen very respectfully your obedient servant

W O BRUEN
Chief Engineer

The demand for winter clothing is very great and many suppose there is an increase in prices. Such is not the case at Beck & Waldman's, who have always kept the prices down. They propose to do so during the winter and until further notice which they are not likely to make. For a fine suit at a reasonable figure just call at Beck & Waldman's Washington and First streets.*

The Cook Room of the Body.

The food that has been cooked in the kitchen must be recooked in the stomach before it can be applied to the nourishment of the body. As a means of facilitating this second cooking in cases where the process is slowly and imperfectly performed Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is invaluable. It promotes the generation of heat in the living laboratory in which the crude materials for building up and recruiting the human frame are turned into convertible aliment. But this is not all. It acts beneficially upon the cellular membrane which secretes the gastric juice upon the liver which produces that natural laxative the bile upon the vessels and upon the absorbents which receive the digested food and upon the digestive organs with the channels of circulation. If any portion of this complex machinery is out of order the Bitters will set it right thus promoting vigorous digestion a healthy secretion and the production of pure rich sustaining blood.

FAIRS AND FESTIVALS.

The festival fair and oyster supper given by the ladies of the congregation at the Baptist Church last evening was the occasion of much pleasure and the friends of the Church certainly have good cause for congratulation on the success attending the very elegant affair. Yesterday a very large number visited the Church between noon and 12 o clock P M and partook of a sumptuous lunch spread by the ladies. In the evening at seven the crowd began to assemble and at nine the large basement room was filled with people either engaging in social converse or indulging in bewitching smiles investing in various fancy articles of use or ornament. So passed the hours until 11 o clock in the most pleasing and agreeable manner to all present. We seldom witnessed an affair of this character where every one seemed to enjoy themselves more fully than the present and the result was no more than might have been expected considering the efforts made by the ladies to please all who favored them with their presence and patronage.

To day an elegant lunch will be spread from 12 M till 2 P M to which all are invited, and those who attend are very sure to go away satisfied and pleased. Business men and others who desire lunch at the hour named will find the accommodation elegant and ample.

We almost forgot to mention the fact that notwithstanding it is midwinter the church has been beautifully and tastefully decorated with evergreens etc. Everything is done to make the affair one of the best of the season and so we believe it is.

Last evening the members of Nonpareil Lodge of Good Templars at their Hall corner First and Madison streets favored their friends with an entertainment which reflects credit on the Lodge and furnished an evening of instruction and pleasure to those present. The hall was well filled by the members and visitors by half past 7 o clock. At this time the exercises began with a song by a select choir. Then followed the opening address by L W Ryan Esq brief but appropriate after which Father Harmon, the Oregon Apostle of Temperance sang a stirring temperance song. The address of the evening was then delivered by Mr Ryan on the subject of "Woman's Power in the Temperance Movement." This address treated the subject in a clear and intelligent manner, and was replete with thoughts well worthy the careful attention of those striving to urge onward the work of temperance. Miss Morgan then read a piece entitled the Drunkard's Daughter in a manner that displayed very fine elocutionary ability and a true conception of the touching theme chosen. Mr W S James then read the Lodge paper called The Horn which contained many very fine things and was received with manifest approbation by the audience. The tables next received the attention of those present and they all seemed to enjoy the oysters, coffee, cakes etc to a degree that was only equalled by their appreciation of the literary exercises. When we left the intention was to call in a band of music and spend an hour or so in the pleasures of the dance. Whoever says that temperance people don't enjoy themselves ought to have been at Nonpareil Hall last night.

The fact of a cessation in the shipping movements in our port has had the effect to bring about a certain apparent laxity in finances which can only be temporary as a renewal of activity may be looked for at any day when exporters will be under the necessity of making up for lost time and creating so much more of a demand for funds to make the large transfers rendered compulsory by the arrival of several ships in our port at once that would otherwise have been scattered through a period of two or three weeks at least At this writing there appears no specially urgent demand for money which is not satisfied with comparative ease

That the country is recovering from the effects of the late panic seems to be generally admitted by every [illegible] from the East Difficult or ruinous as the past two or three months have been for some people the real and productive business of the country [illegible] on a sounder basis than it has been for a long period. And the present condition of things pretty forcibly reminds all of us that the nearer we keep to an economical and legitimate business the safer we shall be If the lesson taught by the recent panic is fully appreciated all will be well if not we shall probably have within a few years a revulsion beside which the experience of the past autumn would appear a trifle Already the suspended manufactories are resuming and business affairs are settling down upon a normal basis The money market still works comparatively easy under a steady increase in resources by the banks

The Associated Banks of New York issued a statement on the 26th ult. of their condition the first one since the 20th day of September They report a decrease of $66,900 in loans, an increase in specie of $633,300 an increase in legal tenders of $4,804,200 an increase in deposits of $6,122,400 and a decrease of $[illegible]00 in circulation The condition is much better than anticipated As furnishing a guide to the condition of the banks the statement however is not to be relied upon for it takes no consideration of the $19,000,000 loan certificates now extant Contrasted with the statement of the previous week —not made public—the banks are under the 25 per cent. required by law $248,250

It is now pretty definitely settled that in order to make both ends meet the expenditures of the Government must be cut down to a considerable extent or, failing this, the weight of taxation be correspondingly increased The effect of the panic upon trade and industry has been to materially reduce the revenues meanwhile the ordinary expenditures go on just the same and our complications with Spain render necessary some extraordinary expenses. This must impress upon the country, and upon Congress, the necessity of great caution in initiating any measures that may lead to expense The imposition of new taxes would be very distasteful and at this time very burdensome if carried beyond the restoration of a few duties that were unwisely abrogated by the Forty-Second Congress, as in the case of tea and coffee Increase of taxation can be avoided only by great care and by strict economy, for the public credit must be maintained at any rate There could hardly be a calamity comparable to the discredit of the Government. It would react upon trade and commerce and industry, and with most disastrous effect on private credit This is not to be thought of As the faith of the Government must be maintained in its full integrity, the question is narrowed down to great economy or additional taxes until the revenue shall recuperate

Increasing Exports of Manufactures.

Returns compiled from the Bureau of Statistics show that the gain in the export trade of the United States is by no means confined to the leading articles of produce, but includes a very handsome percentage of manufactured articles of various kinds The total value of the shipment of manufactures is $80,465,626 in the fiscal year 1872-3 against $63,019,680 in the year 1871-72 an increase of twenty three and a half per cent. on the list as a whole There are thirty four articles and classes of articles that show an increase, and eleven showing a decrease The latter are mostly [illegible] of secondary importance, the exceptions being sewing machines in which there was a loss of about twelve per cent. ordnance stores, which are not in steady demand, in which the loss is forty per cent., and dye-stuffs, in which the loss is thirty six per cent. On most of the important articles there is a large gain Thus, agricultural implements show an increase of sixty-six per cent, railroad cars ten per cent cotton goods twenty-six per cent drugs and medicines thirty-two per cent. iron and manufactures twenty-eight per cent. steel manufactures twenty three per cent. leather and leather goods forty four cent., refined sugar one hundred and three per cent and wood manufactures twenty nine per cent. The proportion of the enumerated articles to the whole value of exports has also increased from about nine and a half to more than ten per cent

The New York Shipping List a standard authority in such matters, thinks that when the returns for the present fiscal year come to be made up, it will be found that the above ratio of increase has been fully maintained, notwithstanding the interruption of the even current of commercial affairs by the panic There is no reason to apprehend that the present derangement will be of long continuance and, if we profit by the lesson there is every reason to believe that great good will come from it With good crops, without which that civilization which improves all classes cannot grow with the rapidity of recent years and with industry richly rewarded and with judicious management we may place our currency system on a sound basis, keep a permanent check upon our over-importations, and increase our exports of manufactures to a point which they have never before attained.

Co-operation.

Several months ago we urged the farmers of Oregon to form co-operative organizations for the purpose of mutual [illegible] and benefit, upon such a basis as might be deemed most probably conducive to the ends sought, and as had the sanction of experience in the older settled States of the Union Whether acting upon our advice or compelled by necessity, the course suggested has been in many instances pursued and the results experienced fully justify efforts made by individuals to bring about a more amicable feeling on the part of both buyers and shippers, and producers. At several points in this valley which we might name the farmers stored their grain in warehouses accessible to the lines of transportation and jointly occupied by them on implied and understood terms as to the disposition of it and by so doing they have been able to a great extent to control the market in their particular locality besides as the interests of so many were concentrated and the good of each was the good of all, the various sources of information have been more closely watched and aggregate results have been much more important and beneficial. Farmers have realized the full price for their grain which the demand justified which they scarcely did last year and while the Liverpool rates are only about 25 cents per cental higher in Liverpool than they were at this time last year the Oregon farmer is receiving at 50 cents more This may be partially owing to cheaper freights but much is also due to organizations formed by the farming classes for the furtherance of their interests

As an example of what may be done by even the limited association of persons in business affairs we notice the fact that a number of farmers from the northern part of Marion county were in our city this week for the purpose of supplying themselves for the winter with various articles for use in their families and on their farms They formed a combination for this special object, making their purchases in a body, intending to divide it hereafter in proportion to the amount needed and paid for by each They bought sugar, salt, coffee, tea, syrups, calicoes, muslins, woolen goods etc for household use, and nails plows hoes harrows, [illegible] iron etc for farming purposes in all amounting to so much that each there being five or six of them, saved enough to pay freight expenses to Portland and still have a clear saving of at least $50 per man, compared with what their purchases would have cost if bought of their home merchants A showing very satisfactory to themselves.

With a mutual recognition of the rights of individuals these organizations may become the instruments of great advantage remembering always that their object should be the accomplishment of matters within the sphere of business with which the members are connected and familiar Hence when the organizations for storing and selling wheat accomplish the objects sought by being formed on a proper basis and properly conducted we will hear much less talk about the necessity of farmers chartering their own ships and doing their own exporting a branch of business untried by them and which they have hitherto trusted to those whose experience in it enable them to conduct it with more safety

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—Since our last review our home market has been disturbed by no unusual occurrence the utmost quiet generally prevailing and shippers holding back as vessels fully due have failed to put in an appearance. The quotations furnished to day are not changed, being firm at $2 per cental We notice continued full receipts by rail and some by boat, while the Powhattan and Disco are the only vessels loading to-day

FLOUR—The market seems to be quite firm at current rates and with an active home demand and a fair export business our State mills are generally running on full time. We note sales in jobbing lots of best of standard brands at $6 [illegible] the range for choice country and outside brands being $5@6 ₱ bbl superfine to fine $4@4 [illegible]

OATS—We are informed by parties from the interior that the surplus is yet barely touched and that large quantities will probably be placed on the market as soon as the wheat crop is fairly moved At present, receipts here are comparatively small quotations being furnished as firm at 45@50 c ₱ bushel

BARLEY—There is very little demand at this point except for the supplying of local breweries and feed We give $1 [illegible] ₱ one hundred pounds as the extremes

FEED—The supply in this market is kept quite full, and with some shipping, and an active home demand, prices are well sustained We quote bran at $1[illegible] ₱ ton in jobbing lots chopped feed $[illegible] shorts $22 50a23

HAY—The receipts of the past few days have been light and our quoted prices of $11a1[illegible] for baled and $12 50@1[illegible] ton for loose timothy, are firm

POTATOES—Receipts have fallen off since the cold weather set in and prices are rather firm with some inclination toward an advance choice varieties for table use are ready sale at 40c ₱ bushel while inferior lots are offered at 30@35c

ONIONS—With light receipts our market is firm at 2 cents ₱ pound The shipments are light as California is well supplied and San Francisco prices flat

APPLES—Like many other articles of produce for which Oregon once found a ready market in San Francisco apples are now far in excess of the regular demand and under present rates of transportation shippers find but little encouragement. Our quotations are for loose lots from wagons, ½ a ¾ of a cent per pound while choice varieties neatly packed command 50a55c ₱ box

BACON—The supply of sides meats is well kept up though hardly as full as a fortnight ago now finding fair sale at 10½@11½c ₱ lb The demand is quite active for Oregon cured hams and shoulders which are much scarcer Quotations are furnished at [illegible] 10c ₱ lb for shoulders and 15c for hams We are not exporting at all but considerable imports arrive by each steamer from California a fact discreditable to the enterprise and economy of our people.

LARD—The market is not in full supply except of importations The call for fresh Oregon lard has been quite steady at 10@11c ₱ lb in kegs and 12c in tins.

BUTTER—Advices from San Francisco indicate a very flat market for Oregon butter there and shippers express discouragement at the prospect. Our market is well supplied with common lots, which can be readily bought for 15a18c in miscellaneous styles of packages The best for family use however is not so plentiful and choice roll is in demand at 25a30 ₱ lb while print butter mostly supplied by well known dairies, commands 30a35c

CHEESE—The local trade is well supplied by four or five dairies in our State and importations from California We quote jobbing prices at 16a17c ₱ lb dairy prices 1[illegible]

DRIED FRUITS—The market is well stocked with seasonable dried fruits and owing to the fact that California is now in receipt of large shipments of dried apples per rail from the East the demand for Oregon shipments is dull at [illegible] Our market is quotable at [illegible] Dried plums are dull at 14a15c

POULTRY—The receipts have slightly fallen off but prices remain as at last report We quote best lots of chickens grown $3a3 50 last springs and mixed lots $2 50a3 ₱ doz turkeys $[illegible] ₱ doz geese $9a12

EGGS—The receipts have again been very materially reduced since the beginning of the present cold spell and considerable inquiry is noted at 40 cents per dozen and we hear of offers of [illegible] cents advance on these figures

BEEF CATTLE—A diminished number of arrivals is noted and prices are quite firm with considerable inquiry for choice lots of young cattle at [illegible] cents ₱ lb

MUTTON SHEEP—The demand is not very active and butchers seem but little inclined to advance rates though few lots are offering Quotations are furnished at $2 [illegible]a3 ₱ head

DRESSED HOGS—We note but little activity in the market considering the fact of the approach of the packing season Good lots, however are taken at 6a[illegible] cents ₱ lb

HIDES—The advices from the East indicating a suspension of many large factories prices here for raw materials have shown more weakness though no positive decline has taken place choice lots of dry still commanding 14a15 cents ₱ lb green salted [illegible] cents and green [illegible] cents

WOOL—The only purchases made for a few days past were for supply of our State factories all of which are running on full time Prices remain at 19a23c ₱ lb according to quality and but little doing

Let parents guardians friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it is too late Send them immediately to DR GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious article. It is important to those who are afflicted or those who are interested in the welfare of the [illegible] to be careful of the many pretended doctors [illegible] in all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Caution to the Unfortunate
